PENROSE SAYS RECIPROCITY BILL WILL PASS IN SENATE

Chairman of Senate Finance Committee Declares That Two-Thirds of Senators Favor Measure—Also That More Than That Number Oppose Root Amendment.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, June 16.—Chairman Penrose of the Senate finance committee, talking with President Taft this afternoon, confirmed the report that sixty Senators are expected to vote for the Canadian reciprocity bill.

Senator Penrose, after the conference with the President, issued a statement in which he said: "A careful canvass shows that substantially two-thirds of the Senate favors the reciprocity bill, while more than that number are opposed to the Root amendment. The Senate will hold daily sessions and in the next two weeks great progress should be made towards the final vote on the measure. The bill will be passed without amendment.

"It would be well," declared Senator Penrose, "if it could be passed before the Canadian Parliament re-assembles in the latter part of July."

CLOSING SESSIONS STATE ASSOCIATION OF NEGRO TEACHERS

The closing program of the North Carolina Colored Teachers' Association has been very intersting. The forces to work against ignorance seem well organized and determined. That this meeting will tell for good in years to come is accepted by all who have been privileged to witness the proceedings. Eternal disapproval has been registered against ignorance, immorality and crime. The addresses and discussions showed that the colored people of this State are patriotic and that they are willing to do their part in trying to free the State of undesirable conditions.

Among those who made addresses yesterday were Profs. R. H. Adams, of Henderson; W. T. B. Williams, Agent Slater Fund; Drs. Geo. C. Clement, of Charlotte, and C. F. Meserve, President of Shaw University. Prof. Adams spoke of the importance of reading. Prof. Williams spoke of the great educational awakening now sweeping the South and what the negro is doing for himself. He is a man of experience and ability. Dr. Dr. Clement spoke of the importance of a reform school for the colored youth. Dr. Meserve spoke of what the negro is doing for himself through the Colleges. Both of these educators made excellent speeches. In the afternoon Dr. Dellinger and Dr. Jones spoke on Sanitation and the Hookworm, respectively. After these addresses the various committees appointed by the chairman, made their reports.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. G. C. Shaw; Vice President, Prof. J. A. Cotton; Treasurer, Prof. F. M. Kennedy; Secretary, Prof. J. W. Paisley; Assistant Secretary, M. Pair.

The annual concert given last night was a treat to those present.

"T. R." HITS "MONEY PRESS"

More Brutal Statements Than Labor Leaders Ever Made.

New York, June 16.—"Certain of the capitalist newspapers of the stamp of that owned by General Otis have been responsible for far more brutal utterances than can be attributed to any recognized labor leader," says Theodore Roosevelt in a leading editorial in the current Outlook, headed "Mr. Gompers, General Otis and the Dynamite Charges."

The article is Colonel Roosevelt's direct answer to editorials of General Otis in the Los Angeles Times and President Gompers in the American Federationist. Roosevelt refers to his original editorial on the McNamara arrests in the Outlook, which he says was only a personal plea, for fair and impartial trial of the accused men.

TACTICS OF THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY DESCRIBED

Witnesses in Depositions Testify That Coupons, Ball Pictures And Free Goods All Helped to Drive Products of Ware-Kramer Company Off The Market.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, June 16.—A number of affidavits by tobacco jobbers in Charlotte, Atlanta, Washington, Charleston and Columbia, and the oral testimony of one Raleigh dealer, were features of the progress of the Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company vs. American Tobacco Company damage suit trial, in which a recess was taken at 2 o'clock this afternoon to Monday in order that the jurors might have opportunity to visit their homes in this and neighboring counties. The evidence was a continuation of the purpose on the part of the plaintiffs to show by the jobbers that the use of single and double coupons, free goods and special concessions of various kinds unlawfully by the American Tobacco Company drove the "White Rolls" brand of cigarettes that Ware-Kramer made off of the market in every section of the country they entered.

Chas. P. Moody, of Charlotte, testified that the American Tobacco Company, sold the bulk of the goods in the Charlotte territory, but didn't know that it controlled the market. Tobacco jobbers must handle A. T. Co's goods to be successful. He has known some of his competitors to sell the trade at prices he had to pay wholesale. White Rolls was one while the best seller.

O. M. Norwood, Charoltte, deposed to the effect that the American Tobacco Company controls the tobacco market in the Charlotte territory, free goods, coupons, tags and concessions of other sorts being the methods employed to drive out the last competitor, White Rolls, of Ware-Kramer Company make. He did not think that a jobber could successfully hadle tobacco unless he was handling the A. T. Co. goods. He said though that he had understood that the Ware-Kramer Company at times gave "free goods" with large orders.

Lewis N. Schiff, of Charlotte, deposed to the effect that the American Tobacco Company and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company control the Charlotte market. He described the A. T. Co. methods of competition during the time the fight was on with the Ware-Kramer Company. Said they would use the coupons, free goods and other methods of stirring interest and rush squads of salesmen to Charlotte to boost up the trade. He said that one while before the fight was made against them the Ware-Kramer White Rolls made a hit in Charlotte territory, so much so that orders had to be rushed there by express because the freight could not be depended upon to keep the trade supplied. He never received concessionss from the Ware-Kramer Company such as the A. T. Co. gave.

The Atlanta jobbers were W. J. Govan, T. H. Pitts, W. N. Tumlin, J. J. Goodman, Jr., Harry Silverman, W. F. Mills, J. L. Carr, Jr., W. I. Jones. Also there was Harry B. Myer, Washington. These all testified to similar conditions of the tobacco trade during the cigarette war involving the Ware-Kramer Company's White Rolls. J. L. Carr, Jr., said the selling features of Piedmonts were coupons and baseball pictures and that when these features were put on they "almost knocked White Rolls in the head." W. N. Tomlin brought out the feature that coupons and premiums killed White Rolls on his market. The customers liked White Rolls best, he said, but they liked that two cents rebate that the coupons gave them.

In view of the trend of the evidence to show that it was the coupon feature of the Amenican Tobacco Company that won out in the driving out of the Ware-Kramer Company goods as competitors, there appears the purpose on the part of counsel for the defense to contend that the use of coupons was in no way illegal at the time they were being used as indicated in the depositions. It was in 1897 that Congress passed a law prohibiting the use of coupons, but this was repealed in 1902, and the use of coupons has since that time been legal, having through the repeal of the prohibitive law, the sanction of Congress.

There was oral testimony today just before the recess, by Jessie Ball, jobber, of Raleigh. He told of the tobacco conditions here just about as they were presented through the depositions of the Charlotte and the Atlanta jobbers previously read.

The court will tomorrow, in chambers, without the jury, consider with counsel, the matter of the formal issues that are to be submitted for the jury.

Mrs. Belmont Advocates Life On a Farm For the Girls In Cities

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT believes that agriculture offers an inviting field for young women in cities, and she hopes to see them become actual, practical farmers. She realizes that farming requires special training and knowledge, and so she has endowed a farm on her estate on Long Island, near New York city, where girls will have a chance to learn how to farm scientifically and practically. The girls, who must pass a satisfactory mental and physical examination before being admitted to the school farm, will be paid $16 a month while going through their college course, which is expected to require about a year. Of course they will receive their board and lodging too. But they will be required to work long hours. No eight hour day will be considered. And the work will be practical as well as theoretical. The girls will actually do the work that is needed in carrying on farming operations. Mrs. Belmont will divide her time between the farm and her work for equal suffrage.

CASH PRIZE FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

At a well attended meeting of the Boy Scouts last evening the interest in the work was intensified by the presence of Rev. T. J. Ogburn who announced that a prize of $5 in gold would be given to the boy under 17 years of age who presents the best article against the use of cigarettes. The contest will close three weeks from last night and the boys will be hard at work during that time. The articles do not have to be original.

The scouts also considered the matter of the regular summer outing, it being finally decided to meet next Friday night to decide on plans. The outing will take place about the middle of July. It is understood that about twenty boys will go on the outing.

WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME SAYS CARDINAL GIBBONS

Special to Telegram.

Baltimore, June 16.—In an address before the graduating class of St. Josephus College yesterday Cardinal Gibbons took occasion to score woman suffrage. Cardinal Gibbons said: "I think the place for women is in the home. They should not want to vote, but if they took such interest in the affairs of their husbands and brothers they could easily have them vote in the right manner."

THE DAILY GRIND IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Four cases were tried in Municipal Court yesterday morning. They were the usual petty offenses, as no case of importance came to the notice of the police during the preceding day.

J. L. Forsythe, a white man arrested Thursday night while lying asleep in Sergeant's alley, was tried on the charge of vagrancy. The case was dismissed and the man ordered to leave the city immediately.

Steven Robertson, another white man, reached the city from Danville Thursday night and was arrested while gloriously drunk and carying a suit-case containing 16 pints of "juice." He was fined $7.50 and the costs.

George Gibson, a white carpenter, was fined $7.50 and the costs for engaging in an affray. The defendant severely pummeled a store-keeper named Lesser on South Elm street Thursday afternoon when the two disagreed and fought after a discussion over the quality of some work which the defendant was doing for the merchant. Harry Mower, a foreign shoemaker, was also charged with engaging in the affray, and had separated Gibson from his victim. The carpenter was painfully choked in the act of rescue, but His Honor held that Mower was a disinterested party and had acted from a peace-making motive. The case against him was dismissed.

Commission About Half Through Work of Hearing Merits of Various Text Books Discussed

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, June 16.—For the first time since the passage of the act Lieutenant-Governor Newland had occasion today to avail himself of the provisions of Chapter 103, Public Laws of 1911, ratified during the last days of the recent session of the legislature, which provides that the Lieutenant-Governor shall be entitled to mileage and per diem as when serving as president of the Senate, when he finds it necessary to attend conferences of the State officers or attend other meetings on official business. He has been here the past several days attending the sessions of the State Text-Book commission. He has found it necessary to return home for a day or two. The commission has just completed the hearings of book men on arithmetics offered for adoption, having also gotten through with books on drawing, writing and reading. Grammars, geographies and histories are the principal text-books yet to have hearings. The commission estimates that the work of hearing the book men is about half done and that the hearings will be over within a week.

Here last evening between trains was Deputy Sheriff Geo. A. Bell, of Tampa, Fla., having in custody W. F. Pound, who is wanted in Tampa for having married a wealthy woman there when he had a wife in Birmingham and also for leaving Tampa with a considerable sum of money that his Tampa wife had given him to buy a shoe store in which he had been clerking for some time. The Tampa woman he married is said to be worth nearly $100,000, and she is twenty-one years older than he. Pound had been captured in Spring Hope, where he was to have taken a place on the police force of the town yesterday, having told it there that he was seeking to regain health by walking from New York to Atlanta, was out of money and must have some employment. In reality he had a few weeks ago escaped from an officer who had taken him at Pawtucket, R. I., and got him as far as Norlina, where he jumped from the car window while the officer was answering some inquiry by a girl on the train as to what train she should take there. The officer traced the fugitive to Spring Hope and procured his arrest.

The Black Mountain contest over the mayoralty of the town has reached the attorney general's office here in the shape of a petition for quo warranto proceedings in the Buncombe county superior court to determine whether W. C. Hall or L. W. Morgan was really elected mayor of the town. Hall is in charge of the office and Morgan, with Chas. A. Webb as counsel, is seeking to have himself installed in his stead.

It is predicted by those in close touch with the work that the tax valuations in Wake will reach $28,000,000 this year as compared with $21,000,000 previous valuation. The assessors and appraisers are just now completing their work.

NURSES FAVOR HOME FOR THOSE STRICKEN WITH TUBERCULOSIS

The convention of State Nurses closed yesterday after a most pleasant and profitable convention. Three excellent addresses were delivered before the association by Misses Perry, of Winston-Salem; Insch, of Charlotte, and McIntosh, of Wilmington.

The principal feature of the closing program was a discussion of the movement started by Miss Bertie Dunn, of Raleigh, to erect a home in western North Carolina where nurses who are victims of tuberculosis can receive the proper treatment and care.

The members of the association entered heartily into the scheme to found this much needed institution. A committee to manage the finances for such a project was appointed with Miss Dunn as chairman. A subscription taken from the association brought forth $385 in pledges. The work on the institution is to be started as soon as possible, with proportionate parts of the expense borne by each of the locals in the State association.

DIAZ DECLARES MEXICO IS IN HANDS OF MOUNTEBANKS

Dethroned President Says He Will Never Return to Land He Served so Long—Says Chaos And Dissatisfaction of People Will be Result of Madero's Regime.

Special to Telegram.

Vigo, Spain, June 16.—Ex-President Diaz, of Mexico, in an interview said this afternoon: "I shall never return to Mexico unless my country calls me to aid her because of war with some foreign nation."

Diaz is a broken man, showing somewhat the bitterness of defeat. "My day is done," he said, "I am an old man, betrayed by those I trusted most. My troubles have come from those I have helped."

Speaking of conditions in Mexico, Diaz said: "The result of the Madero regime will be chaos, disorder, disruption of government and dissatisfaction of the people. I gave my life to Mexico's upbuilding and I am repaid with curses. I did not run away from my people, but escaped the hands of ambitious assassins. Mexico is now in the hands of mountebanks and I will never return."

THE SIDEWALK MATTER IS STILL UNDER CONSIDERATION

Board of Commissioners Will Hear Delegation Favoring Ordinance Monday Afternoon—Many Citizens Commend Commissioner Brown For Enforcing Ordinance.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Board of Commissioners the sidewalk ordinance came up for discussion, the board having two amendments under consideration. Mayor Murphy and Commissioner Foushee were in favor of passing amendments along the lines mentioned in yesterday's Telegram, but Commissioner Brown stated that a delegation of ladies, doctors and merchants wanted to appear before the board Monday afternoon and have their side of the question brought out. Accordingly he asked that action be postponed until Monday afternoon, this being done.

Among those who will appear before the board to approve of the action of Commissioner Brown in having the sidewalk ordinance enforced are several grocery merchants who are opposed to setting their goods on the sidewalks, especially chickens and produce, this view being taken from a sanitary standpoint. The physicians also look at the matter from a sanitary standpoint and will argue before the commissioners the danger in allowing produce, such as vegetables, fruits, etc., to be placed unprotected outside the stores where they are filled with different varieties of germs from the manure-covered streets, as well as brought by legions of flies that seek refuge on produce. The ladies will also have something to say along this line, but, it is understood, they will especially discuss the low awning proposition, as many ladies have had their headgear twisted and sometimes wrecked by coming suddenly in contact with low awnings as they were proceeding along the sidewalk of the city's main thoroughfare.

Since the matter has been brought up a large number of citzens have been heard to commend Commissioner Brown, especialy those who have had to dig up the price of a new hat for their wives after a disastrous parade down the street. Then, too, those who desire that their vegetables and produce purchased from the stores be as clean as possible are heartily commending the portion of the ordinance that requires the merchants, especially grocers, to keep their merchandise inside doors where it will, in a measure be protected from the fliees and germ-laden dust.

It is expected that a large crowd will be present Monday afternoon when the matter again comes up and the proceedings will, no doubt, be quite interesting.

Commissioner Brown requests the statement that all merchants should remember that the present ordinance is still in force and will be until twenty days after the publication of amendments to the ordinance should the ordinance be amended.

YOUNG MAN FOUND ON RAILWAY TRACK BADLY INJURED

A young white man apparently about 23 years old, was picked up on the track of the Southern Railway yesterday morning about 4 o'clock. The man had sustained serious injuries about his head and was unconscious when found a few yards down the track east of the railroad crossing on West Washington street. He was removed to St. Leo's Hospital.

The unfortunate young fellow gives the impression by his appearance of being a laborer. A friend in the crowd which gathered about the injured man after his discovery, identified him as a Mr. Marshburn, of Durham, but the name cannot be conclusively proven as his, for he lay throughout the day at St. Leo's Hospital in an unconscious condition. He has not yet recovered sufficiently to talk comprehensively, and has not verified the supposition that he was struck by a train. His condition last night was regarded as extremely critical by the attending physicians.

MUST NOT COMBINE

Kansas Supreme Court Decides Against Three Standard Subsidiary Companies.

Topeka, Kan., June 16.—The Kansas Supreme Court today handed down a decision prohibiting three subsidiary concerns of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey from "combining to stifle competition."

The three companies against which the suit was brought are the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Standard Oil Company of Kansas and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Each of these companies is chartered in Kansas to produce, purchase and otherwise procure crude oil, to refine it, and to market it.

No one of the companies had been doing all this according to the findings On the contrary, each had been working as part of a system.

The defendant companies are enjoined from owning stock in each other. They are enjoined from selling petroleum or petroleum products cheaper in one part of the State than in another for the purpose of driving out competition and from making contracts with any person to cause such person to refrain from selling oil in Kansas.

THE QUESTION OF OBSTRUCTING THE SIDEWALKS.

The question which has been under consideration in Greensboro for several days, in regard to the obstruction of the sidewalks by merchants and others who use a portion of the walks for the display of merchandise or for advertising or other purposes, is one which has been creating a stir in Wilmington. The Commissioners of that city have ruled that the law against sidewalk obstruction must be enforced and they have had the sidewalks cleared of every form of obstruction, including all kinds of merchandise and displays, barber poles, etc., and are now considering having the traction company, the telephone and telgraph companies place their wires underground and remove their poles from the streets. The Wilmington Commissioners are evidently going the limit in clearing the sidewalks and streets of obstructions. The Charlotte Observer commends the Wilmington Commissioners especially for their determination to enforce the law, and says:

"The Wilmington commissioners are standing pat upon one point at least —namely, that the sidewalks of that city are for the use of the public at large and are not to be obstructed for the conveniences of the merchants. There is on the statute books of Wilmington an ordinance prohibiting the display of wares upon the sidewalks in such a manner as to obstruct passage in the slightest degree. The enforcement of this law annoys many of the merchants, and these recently presented their grievances, requesting that the council allow the sidewalks to be used to a reasonable extent for the purpose mentioned. The newly elected commissioners, however, have conceived the idea that the folks who elected them want the law enforced and have declined to take any action in the premises whatever.

"The matter of sidewalk obstruction is one in which it is immensely difficult to draw any line other than the one upon which the Wilmington authorities take their stand. Grant the slightest discretion to either merchants or police and there will be found men who insist upon occupying an entirely unwarrantable portion of the thoroughfare. Hardship is worked—if at all—because it is impossible to give the retailers who would be reasonable what they ask without throwing open the gates for those who would spread their wares half-way to the curb. The Wilmington commissioners are heartily to be commended for declining to violate the law they are sworn to see executed."

If the Wilmington Commissioners are worthy of commendation for their efforts to enforce the law in that city, the same thing is true of Commissioner Brown in Greensboro. He has announced unequivocally his intention of enforcing the law against sidewalk obstruction as long as it remains a law of the city. Commissioner Brown is right in this position. If the law against obstructing the sidewalks is unwise, obnoxious to the extent that a majority of the people desire its repeal, or if it should be amended in some particulars, whatever is right should be done in repealing or changing the law; but while it is the law of the city it should be strictly and impartially enforced.

As to the wisdom of the law against permitting merchandise to be displayed on the streets and to prevent any kind of sidewalk obstructian, it is the opinion of The Telegram that this law as a general proposition is a wise measure. The Greensboro ordinance may be defective in some of its provisions or details. The Telegram is not informed on that point, as we have not read the ordinance for keeping the sidewalks clear of obstructions. The sidewalks belong to the entire population of the city and should not be used for the benefit of individuals alone. The sidewalks have been constructed for the use of those who have occasion to walk upon the streets of the city. They are intended to be used for this purpose alone, and not as show windows, as temporary warehouses, or in any other manner for the exclusive benefit of individuals. Therefore, whatever course will best conserve the public interests in the sidewalks is the course to pursue in saying who shall use them and in what manner. It certainly is not to the advantage of the public to have one-third or one-half of the width of the sidewalks appropriated to private use. In the case of Elm street in this city, where traffic is always heavy and where at times there is very nearly a blockading of travel on the sidewalks by the throngs of people using them, any obstruction of the walks is a hindrance to travel and a nusiance to pedestrians.

It seems to The Telegram that the proper place for a showwindow is inside the store and that the proper place for making a display of merchandise to attract those who are passing is in a show window. If that course does not sufficiently impress the public the columns of the newspapers are open, and advertising judiciously done in their columns will effect the desired result.

The Telegram unhesitatingly condemns the practice of placing foodstuffs on the sidewalks uncovered. This practice is most dangerous to the health and well being of the community. The Commissioners should have no hesitancy in dealing with this matter, regardless of what their decision may be as to the use of the sidewalks for displaying merchandise. No dealer should be allowed to place anything designed for food uncovered upon the sidewalks, exposed to flys and insects, dust and and dirt and germs of all kinds. On this point there should be no difference of opinion among citizens or among merchants or dealers in foodstuffs. The protection of the public health demands rigid restrictions along this line, and the Commissioners should act promptly and decisively in dealing with this problem.

HAPPY MARRIAGES

(By VIRGINIA HARLAM.)

"Where love is, marriage halves one's sorrows and doubles one's joys."

Some people will tell you that a comfortable income is a great sweetener of life, and with a good balance at one's bankers nobody can call their married life miserable. It is rather odd that the marriage for convenience so often turns out a failure, and that the people whose lives serve as a warning against matrimony to others are more often than not in prosperous circumstances.

Another will tell you that people's tastes should be similar. It undoubtedly is a great point when this is the case, for it increases people's mutual interests.

But, on the other hand, some of the happiest marriages on record have been those where there was not a single taste in common shared by husband and wife; and some the most miserable have been when people have said beforehand, "What a perfectly assorted pair"

"Happy the wooing that's not long in doing," says one proverb, while another tells us that if we marry in haste we shall most probably repent at leisure. Some people say there is more chance of a happy mariage if people have known each other all their lives, others say that people who have not long known each other will most probably get on best together.

What, then, makes the happiest marriage? Those in which there is sympathy, forbearance, consideration between the two, are undoubtedly the happiest in the eyes of the outside public, and it is quite true that outsiders see most of the game.

And what brings about that state of affairs? Can well invested money do it, or the fact that both sides have known each other six months? No; it is absurd to suppose or suggest it; there is only one promoter of the state of happiness, and that is mutual love.

The marriages where love is are the happiest marriages. Undoubtedly; for nothing else helps to smooth away the inevitable jars and jolts of the chariot of life, and makes its wheels run without a hitch.

All lives have their trials and troubles, but only love can make them endurable. No couple, who love each other truly have ever been heard even to hint that marriage is a failure. They would laugh at the very idea. They know that marriage is not exempt from trials, any more than the other phases of this mortal life. But they also know that "where love is, marriage halves one's sorrows and doubles one's joys."

Strike the Rock Yourself

(By CARA REESE.)

"Ah, the Supreme Mind has guided the birds to the refreshing spray of water," murmured a dear and saintly mystic who dreamily watched two robins sporting and bathing in the mist and flow of a lawn sprinkler on the hottest day of the season.

An hour later and the sprinkler was missing. It had been unscrewed from its fastenings by some vandal and carried away in a sneak-thief fashion. 'The Supreme Mind again." gently hinted a materialistic informant.

You see it does not do to take too much for granted. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways when it comes to ordinary comprehension. If the Supreme Mind guides the birds to the refreshing waters, what then guides the mischievous mortal to the same spot with intentions toward wronging? There is a logical inference. It is this logical inference and common sense deduction over creeds and actions which hinders the spread of excellent teachings. The "Lord's doings" are given the praise and the blame indiscriminately. When the Supreme Mind leads to the benefit in one instance and on the heels of the benefits comes the evil, what is to be infered, another power more potent, or the Supreme Mind working its will as before and in more disagreeable fashion!

When one dwells in the realm of mysticism or peers into the occult or sends the intelligence on long journeys into the new thought or that which pertains to the psychic or spiritual, it is well to remember that the majority of the people are still plain matter of fact unregenerates and are ready to combat or disclaim on sound common sense principles. Some might be blunt enough to accord the birds a "sense" sufficient to find the running stream and the hose and sprinkler. They might even suggest a few more dog troughs erected at street corners and fountains for man and beast and then trust to humanity or horse or dog sense for the finding and appropriating of the special benefit. Some might be disposed to leave the Supreme Mind out of the question altogether and suggest "old Nick" as the instigator of the second part of the program and bird nature looking after itself in part first.

The real thing is this, that you may twirl the Bible round three times on a key and string and then read the passage at random in the hope of a special message or direct guidance; you may employ every means in the gift of soothsayer or clairoyant, you may attend the seance, pass into the "silence" and become learned in the occult and a wonder as a psychic in your endeavor to know what to do and the proper way to go about it; you may strive to interpret the workings of the Supreme Mind and wait for direct inspiration, but if you intend to accomplish, you must take a fling at conditions yourself. If you are idle and inert it is scarcely likely that the Supreme Mind will guide you to refreshing waters. Strike the rock yourself.

JAPANESE PROVERBS

Our "Despise not the day of small things," is more picturesquely phrased by the Japanese, who convey the same meaning in "Famous swords are made of iron scrapings."

Our commonplace, "Out of evil good may come," finds with them an expressive smile in "The lotus springs from the mud," and in point of poigancy our "Adding insult to injury" is vastly inferior to their "Rubbing salt on a sore."

Judging from the numerous proverbs on the subject, one would be inclined to think that a large number of persons in Japan are apt to attempt impossibilities. Such persons are described as "building bridges to the clouds," or "throwing stones at the sun," or "dipping up the ocean with a shell," or "scattering a fog with a fan."

There is a strong pessimistic strain in the Japanese, which finds expression in such proverbs as "Better nourish a dog than an unfaithful servant," "Catch a thief and find he is your own son."

A very low appreciation of the pleasures likely to fall to any man's share in this world is indicated in "If you hate a man, let him live."

The Japanese have some really fine sayings worthy of universal acceptance, such as "Thine own heart makes the world," or "The poet at home seems the entire universe," or "The throne of the gods is on the brows of a righteous man."

Their nice observance of manners is evidenced by sayings such as "Excess of politeness becomes impoliteness," their national suspiciousness in "Don't trust a pigeon to carry grain," and their abhorrence of a bungler in numerous quips such as "Learning to swim in a field," or "Scratching the foot with the shoe on."

THE CHURCHES AND SOCIAL SERVICE

All Denominations Are Interested Nowadays to Fact That Churches Must Prove Vital Force in World's Daily Life — However, Church's Spiritual Mission Must Not be Lost Sight of.

Special to Telegram.
(By D. V. FRANCIS.)

New York, June 17.—Perhaps the most interesting phase of modern church work, next to the great misionary revial, is the energy with which churchmen of all denominations are taking up social service. I am not at all sure that the two are part of one whole.

The church is awaking to the fact that to be a vital force in the world it must get out into the world and take the lead in those things which help to make the world better and the conditions under which humanity must work out its destiny more tolerable.

There is a danger in this awakening too which must not be overlooked.

In helping mankind physically, which it is its duty the church must not lose sight of the fact that its prime mission is to help man spirtually. The other while right and important is after all a side issue, a by-product in the language of commerce.

Possibly the tendency towards heresy noted in many of the Evangelical churches is due to the tendency to put the lesser ahead of the greater.

In this connection the National Conference of Charities and Correction which held its thirty-eighth annual meeting in Boston is of unusual interest. To church people interested in modern obligations of Christianity the session was particularly important because it was the occasion of the initial meeting of a newly established section of "the church and social work." Dr. Washington Gladden, of Columbus, Ohio, was last year appointed chairman of this department, and he submitted a report prepared by himself and his fellow-committeemen on the topic, "The function of the church in social work; should it inspire, interpret, guide, or administer it?" This report was discussed by the director of Catholic charities in Brooklyn, Father White; by Rabbi Moses Gries, of Cleveland, and by Dr. Crothers, the Unitarian parish director at Cambridge. At a subsequent meeting of the same section, the theme of discussion was "The preparation of Ministers for social work," and Rev. Charles Stelzle, of the Presbyterian Department of Labor spoke of that preparation in the seminaries, and Dr. Frank Mason North, the Methodist city mission superintendent of New York, spoke of the same preparation in the coming to a man out of the experience of active service. Dr. S. V. V. Holmes, of Buffalo, described the work which his church had done in its neighborhood house in East Buffalo for the past twelve years. The secretary of the Charity Organization Society of Buffalo, Frederick Almy, looking along the line of connection in the other direction, discussed the value of the church to social workers.

In other sections of the same conference, as always, the most vital problems of modern society were discussed, including standards of living and labor, child development, housing, health, and recreation, lawbreaking, and public charity. Unusual attention will be paid to the issues of drunkenness, especially in regard to the relation of the liquor question to the labor movement. The attendance was the largest in the history of the conference.

Cardinal Gibbons' coat-of-arms, presented to him recently by the Paulist Fathers at the Catholic Club, has been redecorated by William L. Harris. It has been placed at the top of the Cardinal's throne in the cathedral there. The work took months in the artist's studio.

The coast-of-arms shows a crozier and a cross. On the shield that bears the coat-of-arms quartered in the American red, white and blue are the Star of Liberty, the Cross of the Church and the Scallop of St. James, the patron saint of the Cardinal. On the shield, inlaid with gold and silver, are the colors indicating the rank and nationality of the only American Cardinal.

The first convention of the Federal Council of Lutheran Brotherhood in the United States held in Washington was most successful. The convention theme was "Organization for Service."

The Lutheran Brotherhood is a creature of the general synod. Action looking to its organization was taken at that convention of the body at Richmond, Ind., in 1909. Preliminary steps were taken in February of that year, and a report was made of the condition of men's work in the church. The general synod indorsed the movement and appointed a committee to have general oversight and effect a federation of all the men's societies into a general organization for the entire church.

The Lutheran Brotherhood is in line with the Federation of men's organizations in the various denominations. The first of these was the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, in the Episcopal Church, organized in 1886. Then followed in rapid succession the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip, the United Presbyterian Men's movement, the Methodist Brotherhood, and Presbyterian Brotherhood, the men's movement of the United Brethern Church, the Baptist Brotherhood, the men's movement of the Disciples of Christ, the Brotherhood of the Southern Presbyterian church, the Congregational Brotherhood and others. Two years ago the combined membership of these various denominational organizations represented approximately 1,000,000 men, banded together for Christian service.

The men in the brotherhoods undertake every variety of Christian work, such as winning men to Christ, disseminating intelligence concerning the needs of the church and the Kingdom of Christ, in all lines, at home and abroad, and materially swelling the sum of money being spent in world evangelization.

The Lutheran Brotherhood convention was followed immediately by the forty-fifth biennial convention of the general synod of the United States.

The Old Tent Evangel committee of New York will open the thirty-second season of Tent Evangel on June 18, at 4 and 8 p. m. on West 124th street, between Morningside and Amsterdam avenues. Among the noted speakers to be heard at the opening services, will be Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers, pastor of Tremont temple, Boston.

This is the ninth season of Tent Evangel under its present union committee of which Rev. G. W. McPherson is the superintendent and F. T. Hopkins the treasurer. During these nine seasons 1,350,000 persons have been gathered for religious instruction.

Tent Evangel is the orignal tent work in New York and the mother of the modern tent movements in America.

The Downfall of Samaria. 2 Kings xvii:1-18.

Golden Text—He, that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy. Prov. xxix:1.

(1.) Verses 1-6—Who was the last king that reigned over the kingdom of Israel?

(2.) What was the character of Hoshea?

(3.) Who did Hoshea succeed as king, and how did he come to the throne? (2 Kings xv:30.)

(4.) What became of Hoshea?(v:4.)

(5.) By whom was Samaria taken and the kingdom of Israel blotted out?

(6.) Verses 7-8—What was the real first cause of the blotting out of the kingdom of the ten tribes? (v:20.)

(7.) What were the secondary causes of the overthrow of the ten tribes?

(8.) How much has God to do direct, with our national prosperity or with our national suffering?

(9.) When we suffer from epidemic disease that we can trace to bad sanitation, or to any other cause over which we have control, why is it either right or wrong to say that God inflicted the suffering?

(10.) How much has God got to do with the sinking of a ship, that was allowed to leave port in an unseaworthy condition?

(11.) What were the general habits of "the heathen" that Israel had imitated?

(12.) Verses 9-12—What specified sins is Israel here accused of, and what relation did they have to the blotting out of the nation?

(13.) Is a "secret" sin as certain to work evil results as one committed in the open?

(14.) In what way do religious sins, such as idolatry, have an evil material effect upon the individual and the nation?

(15.) Verse 13—In how many ways had God "testified" or warned them of the evil results that would follow their sin?

(16.) How does God warn us of the evil consequences of sin?

(17.) How may we learn of the sad and certain results of sin, short of actual experience?

(18.) Verses 14-15—What reason is there to think that they persisted in sin, after knowing the punishment that would surely follow?

(19.) How is it that individuals and communities to-day, persist in doing those things which they know will be disastrous?

(20.) What would you say to the proposition that sin first produces partial insanity, and then its victims keep on in sin knowing, but not realizing, its awful consequences?

(21.) What steps would you take to arouse sinners to the realization of the awful consequences of sin?

(22.) Is it possible to have sinners for boon companions, and to be Christians ourselves?

(23.) Verses 16-18.—What if any are the exceptions to the rule, that sinners get worse and worse?

(24.) When sinners train their children to do what they know will result in injury how do you explain it? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. THE CONTEST.

The most popular and the most practical plan for Bible study, together with a prize Bible contest, commences in the present issue of The Telegram. For the past thirteen weeks we have been explaining the importance of this course of Bible study, and the conditions of the contest, and urging all our readers to join our Local Club. If there are any who do not understand fully about the contest, and the prizes, call at this office and it will be fully explained. In short, the Sunday School lesson must be read each week for 52 weeks, also the "Suggestive Questions," and the coupon should be cut out each week and signed, certifying that this has been done. Then any five of the questions that are indicated to be answered in writing must also be answered, and at the end of the term the coupons and written answers, duly signed with name and address, must be delivered to this office. The prizes will be awarded according to the number of coupons sent in, and the merits of the written answer. You can get all the help you want with the written answers.

Go in to win one of the solid gold medals. If you complete the course you will get a beautifully-engraved Diploma in three colors in any event. Get all you can to join you in this course of Bible study.

Incidents of Census Taking.

Many curious incidents cropped up at the taking of the British census a few days ago. An old woman at Northwich had to visit the churchyard to ascertain how many of her children had died; the number was four: "I have to keep him—I am the head of the family," pleaded a wife in Kingston-on-the-Thames, but the enumerator entered the husband first. A family of seventeen sons and daughters, required a second form at Barnton, Northwich, as the ordinary schedule has only fifteen spaces. Resenting the persistence of a census officer, who had to knock three times before he could get a reply, a Hoxton man struck the enumerator, badly bruising one of his eyes; while a proud father in Ecclesall who had a baby a few hours old calmly explained on the census form that the baby was single and not married.

A Break In Hereditv.

"Mother," said little Willie, who had ben whipped for story-telling, "were you always good when you were a little girl?"

"Yes, always," answered his mother.

"And didn't you ever tell stories?"

"No, never."

"Did father ever tell them, then?" he asked, after a pause.

"Certainly not," she replied.

"Nor grandma?"

"No."

"Nor granddad?"

"No, of course not."

Willie's brows contracted for a moment; then he gave a sigh.

"Well, what I can't make out," he observed pensively, "is where I got it from!"

Our American Ruins.

With a grandiloquent wave of the hand the guide exclaimed:

"Ah, gentlemen, these are historic ruins! You have nothing like them in America."

"No," sniffed the American contemptuously, "but our girls are rapidly annexing the ruins of the guys whose ancestors built them."—Judge.

Courtship is the wine of life; marriage is the morning after.

STONE PLANNED COUP IN SENATE

Hoped to Control Body by Alliance With Insurgents.

PLAN WAS NOT SUCCESSFUL.

Missourian Now Says That Democrats Will Not Aid Republican Principles Flavored With Insurgency—Tremendous Effort Being Made to Patch Up Democratic Differences.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 16.—(Special.)—At the beginning of this session of congress it was reported that Senator Stone was trying to effect an arrangement with the insurgent Republicans by which the Democrats and the dissatisfied element in the Republican party could take control of the senate.

If attempted it was not successful, and the Missouri senator now declares that the insurgents are malcontents, striving to stir up ill feeling and create factions on the Democratic side similar to those on the Republican side. He told them that if they wanted to work with the Democrats they must come over and support Democratic principles and not expect to have the Democrats support Republican principles with a little insurgency thrown in.

While there are party divisions on the Democratic side, it is evident that a tremendous effort is being made to heal differences and get together. The hope is expressed that when the wool bill comes before the senate the Democrats will all be found lined up supporting it, and, strange to say, the Republican regulars expect to have all the Republicans, including the insurgents, standing solidly in opposition to that measure.

Peace Overtures.

It is assumed that the Republicans cannot get together unless Roosevelt supports Taft. That is why there has been so much said about the agreement of the former president to support the present president. There is something in the talk, and the denial by Roosevelt only emphasizes a well known trait of his character, which is that he likes to make his own announcements.

There have been many peace conferences, and Secretary Meyer, Nick Longworth and other mutual friends of Taft and Roosevelt have endeavored to bring about an understanding between them. That such an understanding exists may well be guessed, but perhaps the announcement under big headlines was premature.

Giving the Old Men a Chance.

An interesting feature of the control of the house by the Democrats is the fact that many old men have been employed. A great many of them are Confederate veterans selected by southern members for the places at their disposal. They are dignified but courteous employees.

No Longer a Star.

During the first month of the present session of congress it was noticed that every newspaper man reached for his pencil and paper when ex-Speaker Cannon took the floor. He has often taken part in the debates and house proceedings since, but he no longer causes the interest that he first attracted to him. It was generally supposed he was going to make the minority one continuous exciting performance; but, as a matter of fact, the Republican opposition has been very tame.

One on Fitzgerald.

The chairman of the appropriations committee is from Brooklyn, and for years he has "mothered" the navy yard located in that borough. Therefore when he read under flaming headlines a report that "eight Democrats had been discharged from the Brooklyn navy yard and their places filled by Republicans" Fitz was indignant.

He told his Republican colleague from Brooklyn, Congressman Calder about it. "These places are under the civil service. It is an outrage. I will not stand for it. I am going down to see about it," and more to the same effect. Then Calder, who had been fooled himself for a short time, pointed out to Fitzgerald that the publication was one of the items under "fifty years after" featured in a number of articles of what happened in 1861.

More Than on the Run.

A friend accosted big Ollie James in the house corridor and suggested to him that he had Senator Paynter "on the run" in the senatorial contest down in Kentucky. "Better than that," replied Ollie, "I have got him beaten." One of the things which Paynter has to encounter is the support which he gave Lorimer in the last senate.

An Old Timer.

A few who were here in Washington years and years ago rubbed their eyes and scratched their heads in an effort to remember who was the old man with a grizzled mustache and an empty sleeve pinned to his breast who appeared on the floor of the house and was about the halls of congress. They could scarcely remember that the man was former Congressman Hooker of Mississippi, one of the last of the Confederate brigadiers who served in the house. He was prominent in the Reed and Carlisle congresses, when partisanship ran higher than at present.

FUND IS OVERSUBSCRIBED.

Memorial Tower to Grover. Cleveland Will Be Erected at Princeton.

Newark, N. J., June 6.—Former United States Senator John F. Dryer outlined today to the trustees of the Cleveland memorial fund, the result of the canvass for popular subscriptions towards providing a fund of $100,000 for a memorial tower to be erected at Princeton to the late Grover Cleveland. The fund has been oversubscribed nearly $7,000, Mr. Dryden said, subscriptions having come from every quarter of the United States and from Americans abroad. The amounts ranged from 5 cents to $5,000.

The tower will be attached to the graduate building, now in course of construction at Princeton University. Mr. Dryden was authorized to take initial steps towards procuring bids. The trustees will meet next Wednesday to appoint a subcommittee to supervise construction work.

Where He Hit Her.

A young couple keeping house on the second floor were very often annoyed by their quarreling neighbors below. One night the young man was met at the door by his wife, who exclaimed:

"Oh, John, they have been fighting down stairs nearly all day, and he's hit her again!"

"Is that so?" said John, sympathetically. "Well, where did he hit her this time?"

"I heard them running all over the house, but I think he finally hit her in the pantry."

Indians Dying Out.

Of the thousands of Mono and Yosemite Indian tribes who roamed the districts in this country many years ago, only one of each remain, according to the Indian census which has just been completed by Miss L. Tibbets and C. C. Dorsey, who are employed by the government.—Sonora Correspondent San Francisco Call.

A FLESH BUILDER THAT ADDS WEIGHT AND STRENGTH TO WEAK PEOPLE

The tissue cells of the body are broken by every movement of any portion of the muscular system. When a person is in a healthy condition the tissue cells are built up and replaced by new ones as fast as they are broken and the old ones are carried out of the system by the natural process as so much waste matter, but when the vital forces are sapped by an attack of disease, more tissue cells die than are replaced by new ones, this causes the patient to lose flesh and power of resistance, the patient becomes weak and nervous and is soon in a condition to take on disease of any kind. DR. CAREY'S LIFE TONE TABLETS are the greatest builders known to medical science. They build up the tissues, renew and enrich the blood, impart to it the rich, red hue of perfect health.

They act as a stimulant but do not tear down or leave that bad after effect which is so common to so many so-called remedies. They impart a strength which stays with you. They restore you to a normal condition of flesh but do not produce an excess. There is a natural standard of weight for all persons which the laws of health has established. DR. CAREY'S LIFE TONE TABLETS build up to that standard and no more. If you have tried dieting, or some form of treatment to obtain your proper amount of flesh and weight and all have failed, do not become discouraged, try DR. CAREY'S LIFE TONE TABLETS and the results will surprise you. They make the weak, flabby muscles firm, hard and strong. They tone up the nervous system to the proper pitch, they develop the beautiful harmony of health, until life becomes one grand, sweet song.

Why the Women Fly.

A man observer has found out why Washington society women are taking such an active interest in aviation. Many have delved deeply into the lore of aeronautics and several of the more daring even have been tempted aloft. The reason is because the feminine students of flying wish to wear the strikingly becoming costume which Gladys Hinckley has devised for herself and her sisters who soar. Miss Hinckley, when she practices flights from the Speedway, is dressed in a gown of pale lavender corduroy, fitted tightly. The waist, also of corduroy, is made with what are known as "peasant sleeves," and has a Dutch neck. The hat is an effective as it is novel, but after all, it is the boots which take the eye of the women and make them desire to play at aeroplaning, even if they never get off the ground. The boots are of soft tan leather, and lace to the knee. The skirt is short enough so the footgear is by no means hidden. Many of the aviation enthusiasts are planning to have machines sent to their summer homes, and in the fall it is intended to have a meet in which debutantes and matrons will compete.

The Brighter Side.

Listening without, the beautiful girl's father could hear the smitten swain sighing exactly like a furnace.

"However, he probably eats a good deal less coal!" chuckled the old man philosophically.

For though he needs must look forward to having both the young people to support, he could do so optimistically.—Puck.

Mother's Advice.

"What are you girls doing?"

"Settling our costumes for the Shakespeare ball, mother."

"Take my advice and wait. They may dig up something at any moment to prove there never was such a person, and then where would your Rosalind and Celia be?"—Punch.

Cleaning Hints.

Badly stained marble may be cleaned by mixing up a quantity of the strongest soap lye with quicklime to the consistency of milk and laying it on the marble several minutes. Avoid touching the mixture with the hands.

Oil paintings, if the surface is not badly cracked, may be cleaned by washing with a soft rag wrung dampened with warm water. If badly stained a little soap may be used.

How Cloves Grow.

Clover are the unexpanded flower buds of a beautiful evergreen tree which grows only in tropical countries. The buds are at first a pale color and gradually become green, after which they develop into a bright red, when they are ready for collecting.

During the drying process they are exposed to the smoke of a wood fire and then to the action of the sun, which accounts for their dark brown color when ready for the market.

The clove tree, which attains a height of 30 feet, is a native of a small group of islands in the Indian archipeligo called the Spice Islands, but in the last four centuries it has been carried to all the warmer parts of the world.

Cloves were one of the principal oriental spices which early excited the cupidity of western commerce communities, having been the basis of a rich and lucrative trade since the early part of the Christian era.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., June 16.—Newspapers which yesterday reported general rains in Texas and Oklahoma and drouth broken, formally contradicted this statement today and said that there were only light showers, particularly in the Dallas and Fort Worth section with possibly some benefit to cotton. The weather map this morning shows fair and hot in Texas and Oklahoma, except around Houston, Galveston and Palestine and the greater part of Arkansas, Memphis and in North Carolina. Fair elsewhere in the belt, no rain. Detailed rain records for the last 24 hours show that there was no rain in Texas.

From the above it is plain that the drouth situation has not been relieved. Indications show improved prospects for increasing cloudiness, cooler, east winds and some scattered showers particularly in the North Central belt and Alabama but so far no general rains are indicated.

Liverpool was 3 better than due. Our market advanced a little around the opening, but receded on selling based on the weakness in July in New York, which is still a source of uneasiness and checks support. However, July here and in New York is near 15 cents and there is hardly enough spot cotton for sale at this price to justify weakness in anticipation of things.

AMERICANS AFFECTED.

Reforms Instituted in Mexico Will Restrict Foreign Monopolies.

Chihuahua, Mex., June 16.—Reforms immediately affecting millions of dollars' worth of American property in Mexico were announced tonight. Governor Abraham Gonzales declared that under the new regime foreign concessions which might be regarded as monopolies would not be extended or renewed, and that every legal effort would be made to restrict foreign monopolies now existing in Chihuahua, one of the richest States in minerals and timber. The properties are largely controlled by Americans, British and German interests. The Americans are the largest holders.

"All Americans who grieved at the downfall of the Diaz administration will find that their grief was well founded," said Governor Gonzales. "We do not intend to take away the riches of any foreigner who legally holds them, but we realize that under the Diaz system the granting of concessions with their ruinous payments of large sums of money to Mexican politicians, was a virtual selling out of Mexico.

"For years Mexico has been exploited by foreigners, until the great body of the people have nothing. We were on the verge of becoming a nation of paupers. Now all special privileges shall stop if we can launch it. We propose to maintain the friendliest relations with Americans, and we shall invite all foreign capital to come in but there will be no more selling out of the country by Piecemeal. We will invite competition, not monopoly. If American capital wishes to come here it must be prepared to compete with Mexico capital. No exclusive privileges will be given foreigners. Undoubtedly foreigners, including Americans, who profited so greatly under the Diaz system, will be hard hit by the new era, but the determination to upbuild Mexico and to improve the conditions of her poverty-stricken people, I am sure, will receive the hearty support of the great body of Americans."

Governor Gonzales stated that beginning today the export duty on cattle shipped into the United States would be removed.

Visitor—You used to want your son Herbert to go out west and go to farming ,but I see you've let him have his way at last and sent him to college.

Mr. Muntoburn— Huh! Think I didn't know what I was doing? After his four years at college his allowance will stop, and he'll naturaly have to go to Kansas to be a harvest hand.—Chicago Tribune.

Despondent Man Pulled From Rails As Train Came.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 16.—Because Policeman Schneider told him to go jump into the river, James Goldrick at midnight lay down on the railroad tracks in front of a freight in an attempt to committ suicide. He was discovered by the night man at the station and pulled clear of the tracks just as a train dashed by.

Goldrick had tried all evening to purchase carbolic acid and told the policeman of his troubles. It was then that Scheider made his suggestion in a joking way.

Goldrick was sentenced today to 15 days in the county jail.

JAPANESE AUCTION IS TAME

Even the Auctioneer Has Nothing to Say, and Bids Are Made In Writing.

An un-American Japanese auction is a kind of Oriental prayer meeting. People do not exactly wait for the spirit to move them before making a bid, but they go about as silently as if meditating in a Lenten retreat. Nobody has anything to say, or if he has he exercises a powerful restraint over his emotions and refrains from saying it. Even the auctioneer holds his tongue. Every article that he offers for sale is simply held up for inspection.

The wondrous vocabulary with which Occidental auctioneers proclaim the merits of their wares has no place in a Japanese auction room, the dramatic thrill of "going, going, gone" is never felt. Purchasers write their bids on a slip of paper and send it up by a page. There is no hurry. Everybody has time to count his change and make up his mind how much he can afford to pay.

When the bids are all in the auctioneer coolly turns over the article to the clerk with the highest bidder's offer and takes up the next thing on the list. Unless people wish to talk afterward nobody will ever know what anybody else bid, not even the price paid by the successful bidder.

Heavy Books Injure a Child.

"Don't let the children carry heavy books to and from school," is the advice of a physician who has had a wide experience in children's hospitals. The habit tends to make one shoulder higher than the other, to lengthen the arm and to enlarge the hand disproportionately. When "home work" cannot be avoided, let the child have a set of books for home use. Or, if that is not possible, at least do not allow him to carry books always on the same side.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Women and Society

Miss Casler Entertains.

The younger social set of the city was delightfully entertained last night by Miss Alberta Casler, at a charming reception complimentary to Miss Florence Boatwright, of Danville, who is the house guest of Miss Gena Adams, on West Market street. The hospitable Casler home, 309 Blandwood avenue, was brilliantly lighted and decorated, and the guests, arriving at 8.30 o'clock and remaining until near the midnight hour, spent several hours of genuine enjoyment during the progress of the party.

As the visitors arrived they were welcomed at the door by the hostess, Miss Casler, the guest of honor, Miss Boatwright, and Misses Gena Adams, Mary Silver, Sonora Mooore,and Muriel Hadley, of Kinston, who is visiting Mrs. R. N. Hadley.

Master Charles Thompson conducted the arriving guests into the cloak-room.

Everyone was made to feel at home and the young people scattered throughout the house, rested upon the porch chairs,and occupied the comfortable settees placed about the lawn.

The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white, a color scheme which was followed in the refreshments of cream, cake, and mints, which were serv- at the close of some exciting games and contests. Punch was served throughout the evening by Miss Jennie Vanstory and Forest Wysong.

Several new and interesting games were introduced for the pleasure of the guests. In one of these each boy was required to write out the recipe of his favorite cake. Some very amusing mixtures were the results of the efforts of the would-be chefs. For writing the most original reply and inventing the most toothsome cake, Forest Wysong was presented with the ingredients as he specified in his recipe. After an interesting flower contest among the girls, Miss Gena Adams was declared the winner and given a handsome prize.

The souvenir gift of the occasion to Miss Boatwright was a beautiful remembrance, "Whittier's Birthday Book."

The reception was in progress until a late hour and the guests departed with happy memories of the charming affair that was one of the social successes of the season.

For Miss Lea.

Miss Maie Lindley was the hostess yesterday morning at a most brilliant social function, the first yet given in honor of Miss Marian Lea, who on June 28 will be married to Mr. Ferran Connely. The spacious Lindley home at Pomona was beautifully decorated for the reception of about thirty of the most prominent members of Greensboro society.

Miss Lea, the beautiful and popular leader of this social set, recived a large number of handsome linen pieces, when she was showered by the assembled guests. Beautiful embroidery in profusion was presented to the guest of honor.

Never was a home more becomingly and tastefully decorated than was the scene of this "shower party." Palms, sweet peas, carnations, and other flowers blended their colors and fragrance in making the parlors delightfully pleasant.

Besides the feature of the entertainment, the showering of the bride with linen, several other highly enjoyable amusements were participated in by the visitors. A game of progressive hearts was played and some excellent music and solos were heard when Misses Phyllis Woodall and Josephine Gilmer rendered Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," "I Love You Truly," and "Hemoresque."

At the conclusion of the games and shower, delightful refreshments were served by the hostess. Delicious punch was served throughout by the gentlemen members of the party, Messrs. Clarence Stedman, his guest, Willis Holden, of Raleigh, and John Anderson, of Tampa, Fla.

At Miss Flora Jeffries' euchre and cubical hearts party yesterday at her home on Elizabeth avenue the prize for the greatest number of games at euchre was won by Miss Laura Spong and the consolation by Miss Beatrice Blake. Miss Hazel Cherryman made the highest score at cubical hearts. The party was given in honor of Misses Ruth and Hulda Groome of Greensboro, Opal and Ruth Brown of Asheville, Hannah Goddard of Washington, N. C., Jeb Whitfield of La Grange and Mrs. James F. Bradley of Baltimore. The table prizes, which were bunches of pink and white sweet peas and asparagus ferns, were won by Misses Margarite Springs, Susie Hutchison, Minta Jones, Jeb Whitfield, Hulda Groome, Rose Walsh, Hazel Cherryman and Mary Neal Mellon.—Charlotte Observer.

Trowel Used by Lad in a Fight

A warrant was sworn out yesterday for John Mesley, a young white boy, who became involved in a difficulty with a companion, Ernest Richardson, and seriously wounded him about the head and face with a trowel. Young Richardson was rather badly cut about the face and had to be carried home. Mesley was arrested by Policeman Jones and gave bond for his appearance Monday.

Wherefore "Terse."

"Terse" is a word that has an understood meaning nowadays. Shadwell in the fourth act of "The Humorists" (1671) put this question into the mouth of one of his characters: "Must I stay by the strength of terse claret you have wet yourself into courage?" It is probably an allusion to what is still sometimes called "Dutch courage"—bravery inspired by alcohol. Claret was in those times imported in "tierces," and "terse" may be a contensed form of that word. Also "terse" may be a condensed form of that word. Also "terse claret" may have been a drink that did its business without any circumlocution, like the terse speaker or writer.

June Civil Term of Superior Court Will End Today

All the evidence in the case of John A. Young vs. the Southern Railway was given in yesterday during the session of Superior Court. The action arises from a delay of the defending company to properly ship a number of fruit trees valued at about $800. The speeches of two lawyers were delivered during the afternoon. After two more arguments by attorneys this morning and the delivery of the charge to the jury by Judge Daniels, the case will go to that body for judgment. The present case is the last trial by jury for this term of court.

HIGH HEELS BAD AS RUM.

Heathenish As Rings In Nose, Says Justice Howard.

Troy, N. Y., June 16.—"High heels are as heathenish as rings in the nose or tattooing," declared Supreme Court Justice Howard to the graduating nurses of Troy Hospital.

"Such shoes," said the Justice, "are as barbarous as torturing and as destructive of health as the Chinese wooden shoes. Both breed ungainly and deformed feet. China is proud of one kind of deformed feet, we of the other. Each kind results only in walking monstrosities.

"Will you not advocate normal feet, such feet as God gave? Have you the courage to speak out against this silly fashion—a fashion as destructive as rum, as deadly as opium—or are you to be counted among its devotees?

"Hospitals," continued Justice Howard, "are as necessary for public health as parks. The lying-in ward should no more be the birthplace of the millionaire's scion than of the plebian offspring. The whim of the rich woman is no more entitled to recognition at hospitals than the caprice of the peasant housewife."

Here Moses Got the Tablets

According to ancient tradition the summit of Jebel Musa, in the peninsula of Sinai, is the place where Moses received the Ten Commandments, and saw the Glory of God pass by. In the valley below the Children of Israel were encamped. At the spot where Moses remained fasting 40 days while he inscribed the law on the tablets there stands an old monastery, and the monks show to visitors the impression of the prophet's head in a hollow of the rock.

POLICE HAVE CHASE AFTER JOHN YOUNG

John Young, a notoriously bad negro denizen of the city and until recently a member of the street chain-gang, gave the local police another evidence of his shrewdness yesterday morning when he eluded the officers who were on his trail.

As will be remembered, John escaped last Monday morning from the gang, to which he had been assigned for three months for resisting arrest. He was also bound over to the Superior court on two charges of highway robbery. The police know John's habits and how disinclined he is to engage in honest work, so, believing that he would not depart from this vicinity where he can secure a living from his wife and friends, the officers have been on the watch for the convict.

About 11 o'clock yesterday morning a telephone message came to headquarters stating that the negro had taken a carriage near Bennett College and had driven in toward the city. Policeman McFarland, Sergeant Pearce and Deputy Sheriff George Crutchfield immediately started in pursuit in the automobile of the latter officer. Nothing definite concerning the departure of the carriage could be found, so chase was started after a hack drawn by an old gray horse and driven by a negro wearing a high plug hat, which had gone out Asheboro street.

The officers were about 20 minutes late when they entered the Asheboro street road beyond the city limits. More time was lost by the balking of the automobile and the pursuit stopped until George Floyd came to the rescue with another car. The officers found the tracks of the fleeing carriage and followed this trail to Boone's pond. Although they scoured the vicinity the negro was not to be seen. However, the police believe that John reached town again last night after the adventure, and they are looking for another tilt with him that will result in his capture.

MEANEST WOMAN IS FOUND

Despicable Trick That One From Los Angeles Played on Her Kansas City Friend.

We often hear of the meanest man, and his delinquencies are exposed to a scornful world with merciless severity, but little is said of the meanest woman, on the theory, presumably that the dear creatures are so sweet and ethereal that the quality of meanness does not abide in their composition, the Kansas City Journal says:

But assuming, for the sake of argument, that an attractive woman could be mean, the meanest one has certainly been found in Kansas City, according to the following testimony: One day this week, so the story goes, a very pretty young woman gave a photograph of a rather good-looking young man to a negro maid at the Union depot. On the back was the following inscription: "To Evelyn—The best little girl in the world. May she always remain so. Fred." The young woman also gave the maid a smaller picture of the same young man, bound in an attractive silver frame. "I'm going away to my home, out to Los Angeles," she said, "and I don't want to carry these pictures with me. I've written to my chum to come here and get them. I've been visiting her. He is her husband and a dandy fellow."

Speaking of Adam laying the blame on Eve, here is a piece of pure, unadulterated meanness; if the revealed facts are not wholly misleading, that beats Adam and his tribe to the present generation "all hollow." The girl had accepted the young man's attentions, likewise his bonbons, joy rides, thrilling whispers on the stairs and all the stolen sweets that go to make up the menu of forbidden fruits that relieve life's dull monotony and likewise play hob with domestic happiness. Not only had she accepted his advances, but the circumstantial evidence—though some people profess to doubt the validity of evidence of that sort—goes to show that she had not been wholly a passive quantity in the moods and tenses of the affair.

And yet, when the fun is over and the stolen fruits are sucked dry, she leaves a sour lemon in their place for the husband and wife to divide between them. There are a few mean men in this dreary old world, but one has yet to be found mean enough to stir up, through a sheer spirit of wantonness and malevolence, discord where peace and love reigned before. It takes a woman to win confidence and then put a bitter drop in another woman's cup of happiness.

Not Salts, Oil or Pills But 'Cascarets'

No Odds How Sick Your Stomach; How Hard Your Head Aches or How Bilious —Cascarets Make You Feel Great.

Cascarets act as a bowel tonic, not as an irritant. They are vegetable. Their action is natural. Their effect is the same as the effect of some foods. They are gentle; no griping. They are pleasant; no dreading. They are convenient; no waiting.

One old way was castor oil. The effect was to grease the bowels, and for a single day. Oil never causes the bowel muscles to act. Other ways were pills, salts and cathartics. The effect was the same as pepper in the nostrils. They flooded the bowels with fluid. Those fluids were digestive juices. And the waste today means a lack tomorrow.

We knew that the method was wrong. That the after-effects only weakened the bowels. But we had no gentle laxative in the old days. So we waited as long as we could, then took a big dose of physic. The method today is to take one Cascaret at a time—just as soon as you need it. Then the bowels are always clean. They cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store.

Washing a Rug.

If a cotton rug is to be washed, it is generally of such proportions and thickness that it cannot be wrung. Lay it on a smooth, inclined floor or table and go over it with an ordinary rolling pin, rolling it as you would dough. This will force the water out, without wrinkling the rug, and it will dry much quicker.

Kitchen Press.

To take the place of the "drip bag" there is a kitchen press with a very fine sieve which renders jelly making easy. This press can be used for mashing potatoes, spinach, pumpkins and apple sauce. The only requirement is that the vegetables should be cooked.

Biblical Mathematician.

An interesting problem in mathematics assumes the form of a tradition, connecting itself with the name of Josephus, the Jewish historian. After the Romans had captured Jotopat, so the story runs, Josephus and 40 others sought shelter in a cave. So afraid were they of falling into the hands of the Romans that all of them excepting Josephus and one other man resolved to kill themselves. The wit of the historian began to work, devising a scheme to save himself and this other man who was likeminded with himself. He therefore proposed that they all stand in a semicircle, and that they put each other to death, killing every third man in regular order, and that the last surviving man should then commit suicide. This agreed upon, he was careful to place his likeminded comrade in the sixteenth place in the line and himself in place 31, with the result that the two were the last that were left, and by this means escaped death. It is a true problem, and the question was to know before the killing began which number in line the two friends should assume.

Echoes Told Location of Icebergs.

Captain Anderson of the Scandinavian-American liner Kentucky, from Copenhagen said recently:

"Life on the sea is being made easier not so much by science as by common sense. When the Kentucky was to the eastward of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, in a dense fog, the temperature began to drop and the atmosphere indicated the presence of icebergs.

"We were at a loss to tell whether they were ahead, astern, or abeam. I thought of an experiment. I had the whistle blown, the sound waves struck the huge masses of floating ice, and by means of echoes we were able to tell the location of the icebergs, and steered to the southward, away from the drifting bergs.

Russia Versus New York.

The other day the New York papers carried a rather remarkable "story." A Russian named Mark Selboff, who escaped from the convict mines in Siberia, announced that he was tired of trying to gain a livelihood in New York; that the competition was so great and the strain so hard that the mines of Siberia were preferable. He had saved up his scant savings until he had enough to get a ticket back to Russia, and he was leaving to re-enter the mines. This is certainly not a glowing tribute to the land of great freedom from a man who has come out of that which is pictured as the one of deep gloom and great tribulation.

Young Grammarian.

Teacher—Sammy, in the sentence, "I have a book," what is the case of the pronoun I?

Next Boy (thoughtfully)—Bookcase!—Tit-Bits.

COULDN'T STUMP SMALL BOY

Bully Who Wanted to Kick Empty Bowl Carried by Youngster Is Given Permission.

The little boy was carrying home the empty bowl that had contained his father's dinner, when a big bully appeared.

"Do you mind if I kick that bowl?" inquired the bully.

"Not a bit," said the small boy.

"You mean that? Do you mind if I kick that bowl?"

"Not a bit."

"For the last time. Do you mind if I kick that bowl?"

"No. I should like you to."

"Oh, would you? Then watch me!" exclaimed the bully, as he shattered the bowl to atoms.

"Do you mind now?"

"Not a bit!" retorted the small boy, edging away. "My mother borrowed the bowl from your mother this morning. You'll hear all about it when you get home!"

IMPOSSIBLE.

Molly—Jack said he'd spend his last cent on me.

Dolly—Impossible! He spent his last cent on me before I threw him over.

Singularly Fitting.

"They were discussing Brown, his charming manner and his lack of moral responsibility in all matters connected with money. "He means to be honest as the sun," said one of his friends, "but he doesn't get around to paying his debts."

"He ought not to have any debts," said another man. "He ought to have what my boy in college wrote me for the other day—'Kathleen Mavourneen' loans."

"What are they?" asked one of the party.

"A 'Kathleen Mavourneen' loan 'may be for years and it may be forever.'" said the father.—Youth's Companion.

Thought He Understood.

"Now, there's one thing that I want to impress upon you," said the head of the great corporation after he had formally notified the new general manager of his appointment, "and that is that you are to see that the laws, so far as they apply to the operation of this concern, are strictly obeyed."

"Very well, sir."

"If we can't do business honestly we will quit."

"I understand. Which bookkeeper do you suspect of harboring an intention to try to blackmail you?"

A Ray of Hope.

"I'm mighty glad to see this movement for reciprocity," said the plain citizen. "It argues for an era of better understanding and kindliness."

"You believe it will develop international friendliness?"

"I wasn't thinkin' about foreign countries. But if Canada and the United States can come to a sociable agreement maybe we can hope that Chicago and New York will yet have some respect for each other."

Running Down Clues.

"Ha!" said Burlock Bones, mysteriously. "I have discovered that the man you think so lacking in energy, really has a great deal of push."

"How did you find it out?" asked the admiring friend.

"Hist! I saw him this morning buying a baby carriage and a lawnmower."

Would Make Him Care.

Juggins—Who was that said if he could make the songs of the people he wouldn't care who made the laws?

Muggins—Don't know. But if he's the chap who's making the songs of the people nowadays I'd just like to have the making of the laws a little while! That's all.—Red Hen.

Not Much Sense.

"They talk about horse sense! There isn't any such thing."

"Why, the horse is regarded as a very sensible animal."

"How can he be, when he evidently does not like the idea of always having a bit in his mouth?"

An Odd Outlook.

"There is one queer thing about educational institutions."

"What is that?"

"A primary excellence in secondary schools to keep them from being third rate."

Skepticism.

"A man arrested the other day for 'mashing,' says he has an affliction of the eyes that makes him wink."

"Well?"

"His excuse made everybody else in court wink."

Miss Helen Gould Shows Much Interest In Soldiers' Lives

MISS HELEN GOULD, who has long been interested in the enlisted men of the United States navy, is now manifesting a personal interest in the lives of the fighters in the regular army. She recently spent an entire day on Governors island, in the New York harbor, in company with Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, the wife of the commander of the department of the east. The two women visited every building on the island, and Miss Gould learned all that could be learned about the duties and opportunities of the men in khaki. The above picture of Miss Gould and Mrs. Grant was made during the tour of inspection. Miss Gould appears on the left. Miss Gould has always objected to snapshots, and she usually raises her hand or turns her head so that the man with the camera is foiled.

THE SCRAP BOOK

BRITAIN'S BIGGEST LANDLORDS.

There are some big landlords in Britain. The duke of Sutherland, for instance, owns 1,358,000 acres, or about 2,122 square miles. This holding is larger by far than most of the German grandduchies and is at least thirty times the size of the principality of Liechtenstein. It is said of his grace that he can travel right across Scotland from sea to sea without ever leaving his own land. Then there is the duke of Buccleuch, with 460,000 acres; the marquis of Breadalbane, with 300,000; the duke of Richmond, with 268,000; the duke of Fife, with 250,000; the duke of Atholl, with 202,900; and somewhere about a score whose holdings range between 100,000 and 200,000 acres. There are twenty men, including those mentioned above, who hold between them more than five million acres, equivalent to a block of territory 20 miles long by nearly 40 wide, or about one-eleventh of the total land area of the United Kingdom.

FAMOUS WISHING WELL.

Near Boston Spa, in Yorkshire, England, is a so-called wishing well, which is probably nothing else than a survival of pagan tree worship. The place is called St. Helen's Well, and has been so named ever since the days of the Romans.

The legend runs that people visiting this dried up well to offer up prayers will have their wish granted if they leave an offering in the shape of a shred of their own clothing and observe strict secrecy in regard to the nature of their demands.

Not only lovers and superstitious country folk make pilgrimages to St. Helen's Well; the grove is frequented in summer time by quite serious people, who do not hesitate, when the backs of their companions are turned to furtively tie some scrap from their clothing to the twisted roots and murmur their heart's desires.

He's a poor expressman who is unable to deliver the goods.

DOG'S LONG LINEAGE.

It is impossible to say when dogs were first domesticated, but some of the earliest traces are found on Egyptian monuments, with figures of dogs, somewhat of the greyhound type, which date back to at least 3500 B. C. Even in these remote days the dog was highly esteemed. Coming down a little later, we read that Ulysses, 3,000 years ago, was recognized by his dog Argus after his swineherd had failed to do so. Plutarch speaks of Alcibiades, who cut off the tail of his dog, and Myron, the sculptor, immortalized the animal by chiseling his image in marble. The Romans valued their dogs, and kept them for the chase and also as pets. Alexander the Great owned a veteran fit to tackle a lion.

THE NUPTIAL KISS.

The nuptial kiss, with a meaning akin to that of the kiss of peace, had its origin in a most serious and practical church ceremony known as the espousals. Among mediaeval people, as among some classes of Jews today, it was quite customary for the bridegroom and bride to meet before witnesses in the church some days or even weeks before the marriage, and there make a pledge of future union, and at each times a ring was usually presented by the prospective husband. Sometimes, however, the man was too poor to buy the ornament, and instead presented a kiss, which was doubtless more pleasant and was considered a binding pledge before man and God.

GERMANY'S POOR NOBILITY.

Prof. Kekule von Stradnoitz has just made an interesting study of the condition of many of the ancient ennobled families of Germany. The professor finds that the descendants of families whose nobility is beyond question are in some instances gaining a livelihood, such as it is, as clerks, shopmen and minor officials. Many have emigrated to America. Among these are scions of houses justly distinguished in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Not a few, having put in their term of military service, are now passing their days in the ranks.

AN ANCIENT TRADE SECRET.

The manufacture of vermilion, which is one of the foremost industries of Hongkong, and entirely in the hands of the Chinese, is very ancient. They made artificial cinnabar (a form of mercury, the base of vermilion) long before Europe was civilized, and some of the granite stones between which the pulverized ore is ground are almost prehistoric. Even in the present day there are trade secrets in the industry which no European has been able to fathom. There are over one hundred of these manufacturing plants in Hongkong and Kowloon.

HER IDEA OF MUSICAL VOICE

Assistant to Entertainer Didn't Know Difference Between Singing and Sawing Wood.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the entertainer, "having blindfolded my partner, I will now proceed to test her thought-reading powers. I have in my hand an apple. Will you kindly tell the audience what it is that I am holding in my hand?"

"An apple."

"Correct. I have here a watch. Kindly tell the audience what I have."

"A watch."

"Quite right. You see, ladies and gentlemen, it is impossible to catch her."

The entertainer produced a piece of wood and a saw and commenced to saw vigorously.

"Kindly tell the audience what I am doing."

No reply.

"This is rather a difficult feat, ladies and gentlemen. I will try again. Can you tell me what I am doing?" said the entertainer, continuing his sawing.

"Yes. You are singing."

Loud applause.—Tit-Bits.

Patience.

Dr. Russell H. Conwell is a great believer in patience, and he recently told a story indicating what he believed to be an example of making a virtue of patience.

"A young man was standing at the gate, waiting for his sweetheart, and when at last she appeared he remarked kindly, 'What a time you have kept me waiting!'

"'Oh, dear me, how fussy you are,' she observed. 'Why, I didn't promise to meet you till 7:45 and it's only two minutes after 8 now.'

"'Ah, Mary, dear,' replied the young man, 'but you have made a slight mistake in the day. You were to have been here at 7:45 last evening. I have been waiting ever since.'"

They Are.

"Yes, I witnessed the fiercest battle of the Mexican revolution."

"You did?"

"Indeed I did! Saw the flames belching from the mouths of the guns! Saw the men falling! And all of a sudden the insurrectos charged directly toward me! On they came! I could see the whites of their eyes, their wolfish grins, their——"

"I went out then. These moving pictures are great institutions, aren't they?"

New Source of Rubber.

The hunt for new supplies of rubber continues in all parts of the world; not more eager were those who once sought for the philosopher's stone, that would turn base metals into gold. In fact, the philosopher's stone would be a plaything compared to an inexhaustible supply of rubber.

The latest discovery in this line is in the far East Indies, where jeloutong gum has been found to contain from 10 to 20 per cent. of rubber. This gum comes from a plant that abounds throughout Malaisia, and there is now hardly any sale of the gum, it is so plentiful.

Well Defined.

Charles Dana Gibson, an authority on feminine beauty, discussed, at a dinner in New York, the beauty of the English woman.

"I admire," he said, "the English woman's type. Most men, however, do not. She is so lean, you know, with a clean, greyhound leanness. She is like a tall boy in football training.

"'A Japanese diplomat once defined the English woman neatly at a ball in Cavendish so: 'Comparing the English woman with others,' he said, 'I find out the former's meat looks much harder.'"—New York Tribune.

Chinese Traits.

The Chinese are orderly, law-abiding and well-behaved; they have a strong sense of right and justice—are fair minded; they are reliable in commercial dealings—pay their debts and keep their agreements, whether verbal or written; they are dutiful to parents, fond of children and mindful of etiquette and punctilious about returning courtesies or favors; they are respectful to elders and superiors; they honor and respect character and intellectual ability, and do not recognize an aristocracy of wealth. This list might be largely extended, but it is enough to show what I have undertaken to show—that China has not by any means to seek abroad all the requisites for national greatness and popular welfare; some of the most important are here already.—Address to students of St. John's college, Shanghai.

INDICATIONS POINT TO PROTRACTED SESSION

No Signs Apparent of Early Adjournment of Special Session—Harmony in Democratic Ranks Causes Republicans Anxiety—Underwood Championed as Presidential Nominee.

Special to Telegram.

(By RALPH M. WHITESIDE.)

Washington, June 17.—There are no signs of an early adjournment of Congress. It would surprise few if the extra and regular session practically merged. The Senate up to this time has accomplished nil and seems to have no intention of making haste to improve the record.

The House leaders are firm in their determination to hold Congress until the Senate has acted on the measures sent over to them. This they may do under the promise of President Taft that if the Canadian Reciprocity matter was acted on promptly by the House he would not use his constitutional power in Congress in case of disagreement of the houses as to the time of adjournment.

The House has pretty nearly finished the program agreed upon at the beginning of the session and now proposes to make a new legislative program which will still further upset the tariff applecart. Just how far the Democrats will go is beyond guessing as yet, but in view of the solidarity shown in dealing with the wool schedule they are likely to go far.

That wool schedule performance by the way has given the Republicans no little worry. They had confidently expected a grand smash of Democratic harmony when that test came but behold everything was as melodious as one of the Sullivan's songs and now, the Republicans do not know what to expect.

The harmony microbe also seems to be getting busy in the Senate branch of the Democratic party and signs are not wanting that when the time comes for action in the upper house, if it ever does come that the Democrats there will be found acting with practical unanimity.

If this should be the case it is not impossible that some of these tariff problems will be put up to Mr. Taft stronger.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson made a distinctly good impression on his recent vist to Washington. He is a fine mixer and so far as congressional opinion is concerned has a good show in the Democratic race for nomination. The Jersey governor is going to be a hard man to beat in the convention. Judge Charley Adamson, of Georgia, however, is one of the Democrats who has not surrendered to the Wilson charm. He has a candidate of his own in Hon. Oscar Underwood of Alabama. Judge Adamson said the other day:

"I have just returned from Georgia and find the people enthusiastic in their praise of Champ Clark and Oscar Underwood for their wise statesmanship and superb leadership. I have been for Clark for President for many years, but if for any reason we fail to get him, I am for Underwood. No more level-headed man has sought or held the Presidency in 50 years than Mr. Clark."

In speaking of the tariff issues, Mr. Adamson said:

"There are two ways to fatten the protected trusts. One is by raising the exclusive rates of duty on their finished product. The other is to rob the Treasury to enable them to buy their raw material cheaper. The people do not eat raw wool, nor wear raw wool. They use blankets and woolen goods. Whenever you put them on the free list I am willing to put raw wool on the free list. The Democratic party is not a party of free trade. It believes in honest, fair taxation for the support of the government only. The trusts alone will benefit by free wool. They would sell the finished product no cheaper, while the Treasury would lose $21,000,000 in revenue."

Senator Works of California, is a sworn foe of the Demon Rum. He made things lively for the Monster in Los Angeles and proposes to curb his power in Washington. He proposes to limit the number of saloons in Washington to 100.

To create a business district to which all saloons shall be confined.

To provide that no drinking places shall be maintained within three blocks of the so-called slums.

To provide penalties of imprisonment. as well as fines, for violation of the excise laws.

Senator Works is not new at the business of strict regulation and limitation of saloons. He was a member of the city council of Los Angeles, and leader in the crusade that is credited with giving that city excellent control of the liquor traffic. With 320,000 population, Los Angeles now has only 200 saloons.

Former Senator Money of Mississippi, is confident, he says:

"Certainly, the Democratic party has a splendid chance of capturing the Presidency in 1912, if it does not make mistakes, which the late President Grant insisted it always could be counted upon to do. For the life of me I could not pick the probable candidate for President, but this I do think—no candidate antagonistic to the so-called business interests of the country can be elected. If Bryan names the Democratic nominee for the Presidency, he will be beaten.

"I am heartily in sympathy with the legislative program of the Democrats in Congress," continued Senator Money. "I believe in reciprocity. Senator Stone and I were the only members of the Senate finance committee who were actually in favor of the Canadian agreement. My report of reciprocity is not based on commercial advantages that may come to the people, but upon the broad principle that the nations of the American continent should be in close alliance that would insure a perfect understanding between the three countries involved which will forever insure absolute protection to the United States against attack from any foreign power."

Senator Money probably is the father of reciprocity, for in 1876, while a member of the House, he made a speech favoring reciprocity with Hawaii.

"California has made a law to deal with the man who will not support wife and children" said Col. N. S. Barber, of San Francisco, Cal., commenting on the many nonsupport cases before the District courts. Col. Barber is a lawyer and was here on business before the Interior Department.

"The law provides," said he, "that upon conviction for nonsupport a man shall be set to work on the highways by the State and his earnings of $1.50 per day paid to his family. It is a humane plan, worthy of wide adoption. It disposes of the objection often made that the husband and father can't get work. It also remedies another of his troubles—the fact that he can't save the money he earns. When a man marries and raises a family he assumes a serious obligation. If he won't voluntarily fulfill it, the State has a perfect right to make him do it.

William J. Poindexter, of Sacramento, Cal., who was, and is a frequent visitor to the West Indies, said last night the women of the West Indies have been wearing the hobble skirt for years, and are apt to wear it for years to come. "The hobble may have originated with these women of the tropics, but they probably care little for the credit, as their hobble is more of a necessity than a fashion decree. They wear a bolt anywhere between the shoulders and the tight hobble cord is placed just below the knees. They are often forced to walk through long, wet grass and ford streams, and when occasion demands it the skirts are pulled up and the hobble cord holds them in place. Every native woman wears a hobble, but she calls it a "grazitto."

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Greensboro People.

Too many Greensboro citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills help sick kidneys.

The following statement should convince every Greensboro reader of their efficiency.

F. C. Remfry, 512 S. Main St., High Point, N. C., says: "I was in such a miserable condition with kidney trouble that I did not believe there was any cure for me. My back and limbs were so sore that I could not get up after sitting without assistance and it was impossible for me to go about easily. The kidney secretions were also scanty and highly colored. I doctored and took medicine faithfully, but I did not improve. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the contents of three boxes made a permanent cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SHORT JACKET REIGNS

ETON SHOWN IN NEW CUTS ALL OF THE KIMONO STYLE.

This Means Shoulders and Elbow Sleeves in One— Costume With Skirt of Striped Goods in Black and White.

To speak of the fashions that bloom with the spring is not using a foolish simile, for bushels of posies are to adorn hats and gown materials are to hint of the blossoms of fields and woodlands. In point of cut, the short narrow skirt and short jacket hold supreme sway, but there are as many cuts for both as there are flowers in the field. However, the empire coat, this with a very high waist line made by a seam at the sides or all round, is showing signs of ousting the straight jacket, while the eton, the tailless thing one has known these many years, is fighting hard for broad recognition. The new cuts for these all show the kimono style with shoulders and sleeves in one, but unless a woman has shapely hips the absence of tail will emphasize the defect.

The kimono style—where can one escape it? Everything displays the mania, gown, coats, house frocks, waists. It does not permit a sleeve longer than the elbow, so coat sleeves are necessarily short when showing the phase, long gloves going up to the sleeve edge, or else meeting the bit of undersleeve that peeps below.

Our illustration presents the eton jacket and side-fastened skirt, a plain material being used very effectively on a striped. Now, considering a combination of a like sort, there is nothing more up to date than a striped goods in black and white, and for the plain trimming there are little silks of astounding cheapness. The button molds of this dress, too, offer another chance for economy, for where buttons are ornamentally used, unless they are of this sort, they must be of a special prettiness.

Any other spring wool is feasible for this frock, cloth, tweed, homespun and all the novelty textures of sufficient body for a tailored effect. But to have just the right look, the wing revers of the coat, the cuffs, belt and skirt band should be in a contrasting texture as here.

The real views of the style show how the dress may be changed for a practical goods, the fronts of the coat lapping over here and the princess skirt being entirely plain. Apropos of such high-waisted jupes, they are much seen among the gowns for

Easter wear, and since waists are no longer very small they are becoming to both the fat and the lean.

The hat worn by this figure gives the rear lift once so popular, and which is seen again among the novelty shapes. The hat is of white chip, with a black velvet edge and a vast bow of pure white taffeta ribbon.

POSTAL CLERK FOR 1912.

James P. Hawkins Would Just As Soon Be President.

Louisville, June 16.—Although some political prognosticators have diagonsed 1912 as a Democratic year Louisville offers the first aspirant to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomanation for President of the United States. James P. Hawkins, a postoffice clerk, who lives at 842 South Preston street, asks that he be accorded the highest honor in the gift of his fellow-citizens. Mr. Hawkins is not a prospective candidate. There are no "ifs" or "buts" about his candidacy. He wants the job and has made public announcement of the fact.

His Woman-Proof Heart

By JOANNA SINGLE

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Things began to happen in John Dorr's hitherto quiet life. He had been head draughtsman ten years. Then, one June morning, Foster, the senior partner, called him to the inner office. Tauton, the other firm member, was grinning in his happy fashion.

"You're junior partner, Dorr, from this time forth! How do you like it?"

Both older men rose and shook hands with him. Their friendliness was personal as well as in business.

Dorr's steady dark eyes lighted happily. He was probably thirty-three or four, of the slow-going but absolutely sure sort. He said nothing could be better. And then they discussed the financial side. An hour later he was leaving them, when Tauton stopped him jocularly.

"We've only one fault to find with you, John. You're not quite human with that woman-proof heart of yours! You seem never to even see a girl—and they all see you! Marry and be one of us, and have some real life in that little cottage of yours. Eh?"

Dorr laughed, but his reserve was not broken. "Some marry, like you; some, like me—do not. I consider myself a successful bachelor." He left them, not saying that love had seemed to pass him by. He would marry, if ever, because love came and found him, not because other men married.

The next astounding thing happened the next morning. Miss Gray, always at her desk early, was waiting for him. No one else was down yet, and she followed him to the inner room and closed the door. In the year she had been in the office she had spoken to nobody there save on business, and almost never to Dorr. Now she laid a shining handful of jewelry on the desk before him, and stood, tall and slender, her face grave, her gray eyes serious. She spoke as if conferring rather than asking a favor.

"Could I get—$200 on these? I know nothing about pawning things."

Through his amazement he noted the depth of her clear eyes, the way her fine, smooth brown hair framed her face, the little lines at her temples. She could not have been much under thirty. He examined the heavy old watch of fine gold, two diamond rings, one very good; a little sapphire, like a blue eye, and other trinkets.

"I—should think so. Why not let us—the firm—advance the money?"

She shook her head firmly. "That would not—do. And I need the money this afternoon, too. I thought you could tell me the best place to go."

"They are all—horrible places. Properly managed, some of them might lend it. I'll—go for you. You couldn't go to a place like that."

She turned as if the matter were settled. "Thank you very much," she said pleasantly and went back to her desk.

He liked it that she did not explain, that if she had troubles she did not mention them, and that, whatever it was, she came to her own firm. But it set his thoughts upon her. How came she to have such expensive things? Why did she need money? She had a good salary, lived very quietly, and inexpensively—he knew where she boarded, and had a vague idea that all her people were dead. He thought he would—why, he would quietly keep her jewels and give her the money himself! Then he knew she would not accept it. He was driven to deceit. He pawned the watch only, as less personal, and when he gave her the envelope of bill merely showed her the ticket, explaining that he would keep it and get the things when the 60 days were up.

But the matter disturbed him, and he wished it had not occurred. He furtively studied her. She was a lady. The quietness of her dress and manner, the perfection of her toilet, above all, her reserve, showed that. Her voice was cultivated, and her work showed the grasp and accuracy of a trained mind.

As the hot June days passed he saw a change in her. Miss Taylor, the bookkeeper, had gone on her vacation, and as business was light, Miss Gray did her work in her absence. Was it too much for her? Dorr noted that for the first time since he had known her, she seemed worried. Her eyes were shadowed, her face pale. He spoke to her about it one Saturday noon after the others had left and were not to return. She was bending over a ledger.

"Miss Gray, it's pretty hot in here. You'd better not stay—let it go until Monday. Shall I work at it for an hour? I can."

She seemed to shrink from him, and protested.

"No," she said, "let me do it. I'm learning—you know I'm not an experienced bookkeeper—I'll get along all right."

He left her, but he thought her manner strange. Was anything wrong? Surely not. But when Monday morning came, she was there at the office when he entered, bending over the ledger with a little frown on her brow. He walked straight up to her.

West Chester, Pa., June 16.—A curious incident in connection with the heavy windstorm that visited this section Monday night was that a coop occupied by a sitting hen on the farm of Norman Gawthrop, near Northbrook, was carried away more than 100 yards, but the hen was not disturbed, and was found on her nest warming the eggs on the following morning.

TWINS OUTPLAYED GREENSBORO AND STOWED GAME AWAY

Patriots Dropped First Game in Winston by Score of 7 to 1.

Winston-Salem, June 16.—The Twins clearly outplayed Greensboro at all points this afternoon and won 7 to 1. Eldridge was hammered hard and given ragged support. Swindell kept the hits off his delivery scattered and was given practically perfect support.

The Twins scored first in the fourth frame on a single, an infield out and another single. In the next inning they sewed up the game. The Patriots scored their one run in the eighth on a double by Rickard and a single by Doyle.

Loman ran into the fence attempting to catch a fly in the fifth, cutting his head, and was removed from the game and Morrissey installed in right.

SPINNERS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM LAVAL'S SPARTANS

Greenville, S. C., June 16.—With only one day's rest Cashion's pitching was a little wild, but the snappy playing of the locals prevented runs by the Spartans, while the visitors' errors helped the locals. Bases on balls helped the Spartans in all runs except the last. Greenville's winning run came after two outs, on a single, a stolen base and a long single to right. Smith kept his hits scattered except in the third.

SLUGGING FEATURE OF CHARLOTTE-ANDERSON GAME

Charlotte, June 16.—In a game featured by the exceedingly heavy stickwork of both teams, the Hornets won from the Electricians this afternoon, the final score being 7 to 4. Scheesley was steady in pinches and had the better of Wolfe. Hargrave's boneheaded play when he lost the ball in the fifth, was responsible for two runs. Fogarty was put out of the game without cause by his Umps.

The two teams got seventeen hits for a total of thirty-six bases. Coutts starred with the wollow, pounding the horsehide for two triples and a double out of four times up. J. Kelly pounded out a homer with two men on.

CARNEGIE TO TESTIFY ON RETURN HOME

Special to Telegram.

Skibe, Scotland, June 16.—Andrew Carnegie when interviewed regarding the steel trust investigation, said: "This man Gates is a broken down gambler. I have nothing to do with him. When I return I will take the stand and testify, although I don't know why they want me. It is merely for a sensation, I presume, but when I have finished the public may judge whether this man Gates or I told the truth."

Mr. Carnegie when asked concerning the coronation of King George, declared: "George will make as excellent a king as his father. As to Queen Mary, it is a long time since Great Britain has had so noble a queen and mother. Being an American I would say that Queen Mary is the equal of the best type of American ladies."

DIAMOND DUST

Where They Play Today.

Greensboro at Winston.
Anderson at Charlotte.
Spartanburg at Greenville.

On to Winston.

We go back to top place today.

Excursion to Winston-Salem this afternoon.

Train for Winston-Salem leaves at 1.45 p. m. Fare for round trip $1.00; boys, 50 cents.

Winston-Salem never does stay on top more than a day or two at the time.

"Rube" had his chance against Swindell. He went, he saw, and he was conquered.

Up to the fans to go to Winston today and return the call on the Twin City folks.

Today's contest will be a good game, with Deacon Morrisey and "Rube" Howarde opposing each other.

Bouquets for Patriots—From Charlotte Observer.

Greensboro just naturally wins games.

We generally hit Walters hard, but we seldom win from him.

Many went to the park yesterday for little else than to witness Walters' work.

If the truth was only known, Greensboro got more than they were entitled to out of that series.

Doyle is perhaps the best second baseman in this league and just as good a manager as he is second baseman without the perhaps.

Doyle's management of the team is deserving of more than passing notice. He allows none of his men to occupy grouchy attitudes and kicks but little himself. His forbearance yesterday was altogether praiseworthy.

The Dickens of a Toast.

The wit of the late Dr. Francis A. Harris was always ready. It came like a flash as, when being told that a Chinaman was about to be appointed on the police force, he remarked, "The Asiatic collarer," and passed on. At a banquet given to Charles Dickens the younger, the chairman inadvertently talking backward, referred to the guest as one not only honored for himself, but because of his father. Then younger Dickens, in response, dryly observed that he was glad to see that critical discrimination had not been lost on hospitality, and Dr. Harris saved the situation by rising and proposing a toast to "Charles the Second, who never lost his head."

HOW HE OBTAINS PIN MONEY

Farmer's Husband Tells His Methods of Persuading the Hens to Lay More Eggs.

Like most farmers' husbands I am compelled to rely on the chicken and egg money to dress myself, as my wife puts all the cash into labor-saving machinery for every place but the kitchen. This was borne in on me early in my married life, so I carefully studied means of increasing the lay of my barnyard friends.

In the winter time I always wear a pretty lace shirt and carry a palm leaf fan when I feed the hens. This apparel I have found completely deceives them into thinking it is summer, and they lay accordingly.

In the summer it takes but a moment for me to slip into my nearplush ulster and wind a bright red tippet around my neck while scattering their corn. This is important, for it makes them think it is winter, and hence summer, and insures a plentiful supply of eggs.

I have observed they do not seem to care whether these clothes are the latest style or not, so I generally wear my third best. In addition to these simple little devices I always sing to them, "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," at all seasons of the year.

By faithfully following this plan for the last seventeen years I have managed to save enough money to buy a perfectly stunning pair of lilac harem trousers.—McLandburgh Wilson in New York Times.

WITH HER SWEET HELP

ADDISON WETMORE FINALLY IS EMBOLDENED TO ASK.

But His Question Is Not Exactly the One the Young Lady Had Been Expecting for Nearly Three Years.

Miss Derringforth felt a delightful fluttering in the vicinity of her heart.

Addison Wetmore seemed to be nervous and eager. It was clear that he had something on his mind. He picked up one of the six best sellers and glanced for a moment at one of the illustrations, then threw the book aside and drew a deep sigh, gazing earnestly at his pretty companion.

"What has come over you this evening?" she asked. "You seem to be awfully nervous."

He crossed to the baby grand and, leaning upon it, gazed down into the beautiful girl's deep, dark eyes. There was in his look an earnestness that she had never seen there before and suddenly she realized that this was to be perhaps the most thrilling moment of her life.

"We have known each other a long time, haven't we, Shirley?" he replied in tones that were tense with emotion.

"Yes," she admitted, permitting her pretty slim fingers to fall from the ivory keys and modestly avoiding his eager gaze, "it is nearly three years."

"You have had a chance in that time to get to know me pretty well, haven't you? I have always tried to be a perfect gentleman when I was with you, haven't I?"

"Yes, I have never seen you do anything to be ashamed of."

"Has your father ever objected to our friendship?"

"No, father has always liked you very much. He has often said he didn't think you were one of those young men who thought their lives would be wasted unless they squandered their money on women who smoked cigarettes and drank wine in public places."

"I'm glad to hear he has such a good opinion of me. There's something I want to ask you."

"Is there?"

"Yes. It's something very important."

"The folks have all gone out. We are alone here."

He took one of her soft hands in his and she looked up at him with sweet, girlish innocence.

"It is something I have been thinking of for several days."

"What is it, Addison?"

"I hardly know how to say it."

"But I can't say it for you, can I?"

"No, of course not. You are sure your father likes me?"

"Yes, he couldn't think more of you if you were his son."

"Well, I want to borrow $50. Do you think he would let me have it?"

"I don't know," she replied, drawing her hand from his. "If you wish me to do so I'll ask him at breakfast tomorrow morning. If you don't hear from me you will know that he has refused. Dear me! How late it is. I will be glad to let you have a nickel if you need car fare to get home."

Not an Old Man's Game!

"I may have lost my golf ball," thought the old man, as he crept on all fours round the bush into which it had rolled, "but I will not lose my temper."

So he continued to grovel and grope, and to wear a persuasive, patient smile. His knees bagged, his back ached horribly, and the bush bestowed upon his hands a generous quantity of thorns. But he refused to discard his smile, and kept on repeating:

"No, I will not lose my temper. I will not!"

Suddenly the elusive ball caught his eye. Flopping flat, he stretched his hand towards it, grasped it among its nest of thorns, and gingerly withdrew it.

"Hoity-toity!" exclaimed an old woman behind him. "You ought to be ashamed, birdnesting at your time of life!"

And then he did lose his temper.

Appropriately Named.

Few St. Louisans are so notoriously bald as Walker Hill, president of the Mechanics-American bank. The other day a friend thrust his head into Mr. Hill's office.

"Getting up in the world, aren't you?"

"Huh?" Mr. Hill said.

"I understand they have named a new town for you."

"That so?" the banker responded, not unflattered by the news.

"Yes—some place down on the Iron Mountain."

"That's funny," Mr. Hill said. "I don't know anything about it. What's the name of the town?"

"Bald Knob," the friend said, withdrawing uproariously.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Poor.

Mrs. Highupp—How was the new rector's sermon?

Mrs. Blase—Very disappointing. He was going to talk on "Revelations," and all the scandals that he had to offer were about cities and people dead and gone centuries ago!—Puck.

Marriage and Business.

"Frederick Townsend Martin, the New York society leader, says that marriage is a business proposition."

"That probably accounts for the large number of failures."

Churchgoers Near Panic.

An extraordinary panic occurred recently in St. Woolas church, Newport, Monmouthshire, England, when, during the rendering of a sacred cantata by the choir, the electric light suddenly failed and the building was plunged in darkness. The startled singers were silent. Then women screamed with alarm, and made for the doors. A serious panic seemed likely, though the vicar assured the congregation that all would be right within a few minutes. The fears of the people were finally quieted by the choir beginning to sing again through the darkness the old hymn, "Aberystwyth." Meanwhile churchwardens groped their way to the emergency gas burners, and gradually one by one lights sprang into brightness, and the service was quietly resumed.

Word to Be Avoided.

Recovery of a letter which had been sent to a little town in Germany and never delivered to the person addressed cured one writer of the custom of adding "Esquire" to a name on the superscription of mail matter. The letter in question would probably have been promptly delivered had the address read simply, "Mr. John Brown." But the sender had addressed it "John Brown, Esquire" and the communication rested comfortably in the "E" compartment of the post restant department waiting to be called for by "Mr. Esquire." One of the popular guide books warns against the use of "Esq.," saying that it might be mistaken for a name.
